THE 1951 ELK

PUBLISHED BY THE STUDENTS

OF

ELKIN HIGH SCHOOL

ELKIN, NORTH CAROLINA

FOREWORD

As a memory book of all the accomplishments and failures which have been ours in Elkin High, as an album and autograph book endorsed by all of our dearest acquaintances to keep fresh in our minds the value and sincerity of their friendship, and as a continuance of The Elk series which began five years ago, we, the Seniors of '51, offer to you our 1950-51 yearbook.

DEDICATION

To attempt to reveal all the achievements of a life so full as hers in such a few words of dedication would be impossible. For her interest in our everyday problems, her desire for greater growth and development of our school, and her unlimited support of each of our many school activities, we take pride in dedicating this, our 1950-51 Elk, to Miss Ethel Whitley—associate, teacher, and friend.

CLASS POEM

TO THE CLASS WHO'LL TAKE OUR PLACE

There is a class we'd like to meet
A group we'll never know;
It's the class who's going to take our place
Since it's time for us to go.

We've wondered what sort of students you'd be;
We've longed to take each hand
Just to say we wish you well, dear friends,
In a way you'd understand.

Will you make the same mistakes we've made?
Will you know the battles lost?
Will you ever know the tears they've caused
Or the heartaches they have cost?

We've dreamed our dreams as students do,
But many never came true;
We hope, dear friends, that some sweet day
They'll be realized by you.

We'll meet somewhere in this great, wide world
At some glad time and place,
And we'll know that you're from Elkin High
By the smile upon each face.

So here's our pledge of love and faith
And tasks that must be done—
And here's to the class who will take the place
Of the CLASS OF FIFTY-ONE.

ACT I

Time: S rough June, 1948.

Cast: J yn Freeman, and Sam Transou
d by 78 players.

Plot: T teurs. Some quake with stage fright but all make a decided effort, and when the act is completed, it can be considered a success.

ACT II

Time: September, 1948, through June, 1949.

Cast: Carolyn Freeman, Sam Transou, Mary Jo Hudspeth, and Tommy James lead 51 members of the cast.

Plot: The group of actors is now full of vim, vigor, and vitality and is ready to put its best foot forward. Knees are no longer shaking from fright, but the actors stand like soldiers marching forth to victory. Their performance will long be remembered.

ACT III

Time: September, 1949, through June, 1950.

Cast: R. C. Osborne, Tommy James, Carolyn Freeman, and David Jordan with 52 other juniors aiding and adding color to the scene.

Plot: Excitement has come at last! Those girls with Einstein brains, Jean Adams, Lucy Luffman, Polly Bivins, Gwyn Walker, Roselyn Calloway, and Bonnie Hall are elected marshals. Betty Caudle and Jean Adams are lucky enough to be chosen to attend Girls' State. Jean Adams wins first place in the speech contest sponsored by the American Legion.

CLASS HISTORY

R. C. Osborne is elected president of the Student Council for the following school term. The junior class is selling magazines and sponsoring the Greek God and Goddess contest to raise money for the climax of the year—the Junior-Senior Prom, which is given in honor of those noted actors, the seniors. The curtain descends slowly, for the juniors have passed one unforgettable year in the life of all and are beginning to look forward to the last but most important act.

ACT IV

Time: September, 1950, through June, 1951.

Cast: Tommy James, Gwyn Walker, Carolyn Freeman, and David Jordan with 49 co-stars.

Plot: The actors are finishing the act into which they have put their whole hearts. Ima Jackson wins second place in the "Voice of Democracy" contest. Mrs. Royall's senior class wins first place in the homecoming parade and Carolyn Freeman is crowned football queen. Tommy James is elected football captain with R. C. Osborne and Bobby Nance as co-captains. David Jordan is crowned football king. Gwyn Walker is editor-in-chief of The Elk while Jean Adams is serving as editor of The Elk Antler and as chief cheerleader. Tommy James has the distinction of representing us in the Optimist Bowl. As the curtain is about to fall, the actors receive diplomas as their rewards. At this time, one can see in their eyes the gratitude they wish to express to their teachers, who have stood beside them through their experiences, and to their parents, who have loved, watched, and cared for them. As the audience thunders applause, the actors begin to look forward to life, the greatest stage in all the world.

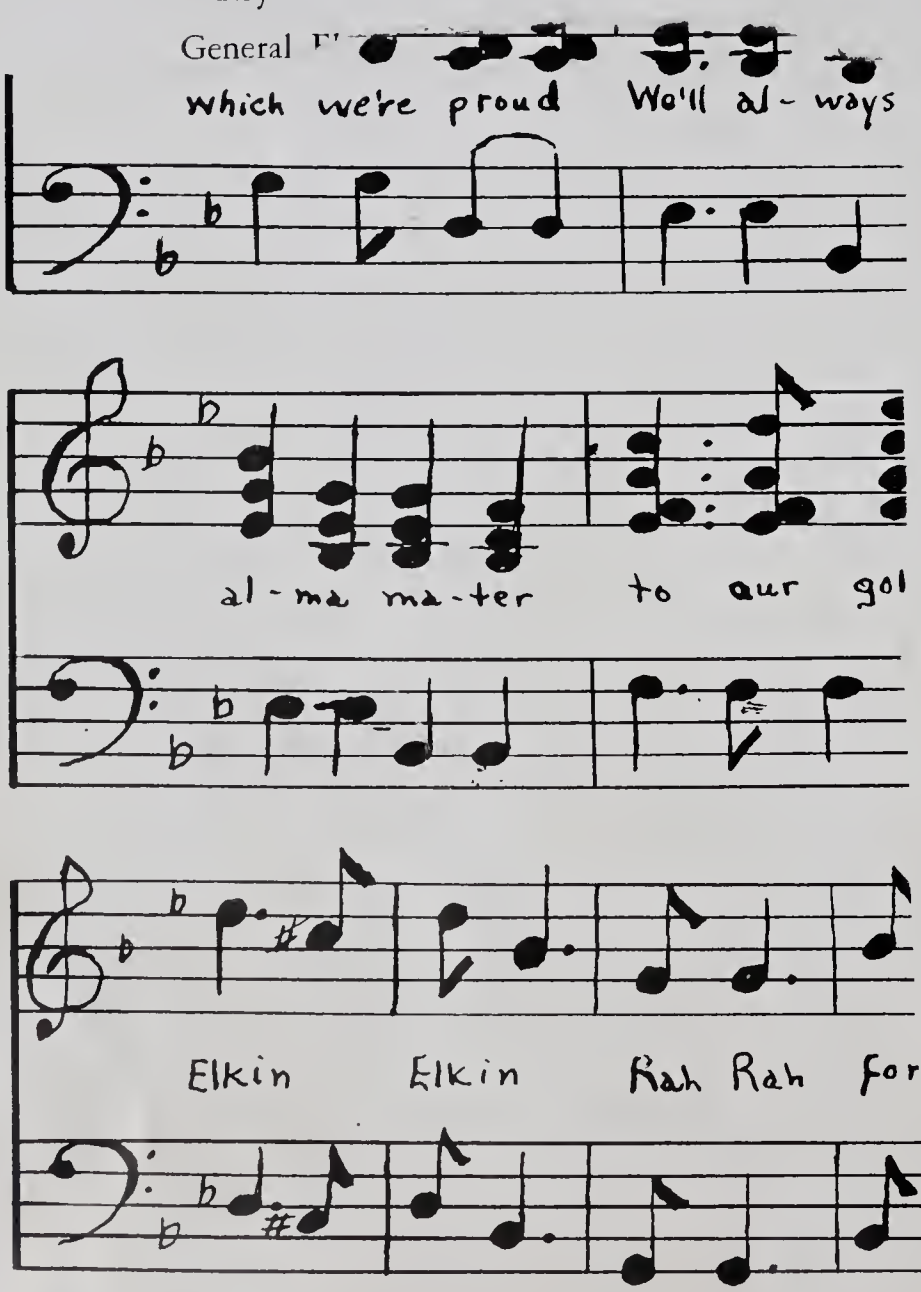
CLASS PROPHECY

I've just had the strangest dream about the members of this class. Let me tell you about it. The first thing I saw was a calendar for 1960, and I realized it had been almost ten years since our graduation. I thought of all my old classmates and wondered what each one had chosen for his life's work in this fast-moving world. Then, one by one, they came to me and this is what they told me about themselves:

Betty Ann DeBorde headed the Home Economics Department in Washington.

Betty Jean Jackson was happily married and had a set of lovely twins.

Roy Bates was chief radio technician for General F[illegible]



Hallie Haynes was still looking for a rich young man with a penthouse and a Cadillac.

Tommy and R. C. Osborne owned a large chain of A.B.C. stores and business was popping.

Charles Fletcher managed a funeral parlor in Chicago, but business was going in the hole.

David Jordan operated a bakery, but for a while he had some trouble raising the dough.

Gwyn Walker was a famous novelist.

Jean Adams headed all the girls' activities in New York's largest YWCA.

Charles Cockerham and Greta Cheek were married and settled down on a chicken farm.

Jeanette and Frank Lewis owned one of the largest skating rinks in North Carolina and business was rolling.

Frances Burcham was a famous singer in the New York Metropolitan Opera.

Brady Sloop operated a rip saw in a large furniture factory. His nickname was "Three-finger Sloop."

Braxton Woodruff held the position of top mechanic for the Chevrolet Company.

Bobby Eidson was a test pilot for Bell Air Craft Company.

Bobby Nance coached basketball at Ronda High School. His team had had a perfect season.

Jean Byrd managed a famous restaurant in Hollywood.

CLASS PROPHECY

Bobby Laffoon was happily married to Vertle Vestal. They made their home in Miami, Fla.

Polly Bivins had been given the Pulitzer Prize for her latest novel.

Helen Brookshire was a famous surgeon at Johns Hopkins Hospital.

Roselyn Calloway was married to Dean Nichols and they were living in North Wilkesboro.

Betty Caudle operated an exclusive dress shop in Paris.

Carolyn Freeman taught music in Europe.

Jerry Haynes was happily married and living in New York.

Phyllis Jennings wrote for the New York Times.

Lucy Luffman was a famous pianist in London.

Roland Brown was doing time. Seems like they caught him making his own brand of Hadacol.

Tommy Yarboro was the best milkman Klondike farm had. He pulled down about fifty dollars a week.

Maxine Couch had taken up the career of interior decorating and is a big success.

Della Myers had become famous as a dress designer in New York.

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

As we, the graduating class of 1951, prepare to leave Elkin High School after four successful and happy years, there are certain possessions and mementos which we wish to present to those who will be left behind. Having claim to sound minds and bodies, we do hereby make this our last will and testament, at the same time revoking and voiding all wills made by us heretofore.

May each bequest serve its beneficiary in such a way as to improve that person's present state and to lift all within the walls of our school to a greater and nobler existence.

I, Roy Bates, bequeath my rides to town to Sam D. Marshall.

I, Tommy Yarboro, will the old "Dodge" to whoever will take it.

I, Jean Byrd, bequeath to Frances Byrd my position on the basketball team.

I, Bobby Laffoon, leave my ability to lose weight to Kathryn Osborne.

I, Betty Jean Jackson, bequeath my future occupation as a housewife to Kay Guyer.

I, Bernard Jackson, will my ability to get along with Mrs. Royall for four periods a day to Clay Haynes.

I, Maxine Couch, bequeath my membership in the Beta Club to Clara Couch.

I, Hallie Haynes, bequeath my position as circulation manager of The Elk Antler to Kathryn Osborne.

We, Charles Cockerham and Greta Cheek, will our way of making "love" to Abie and Pat.

I, Braxton Woodruff, bequeath my seat in the D. O. room to whoever is man enough to get it.

I, Roland Brown, bequeath all my dignity, love for hillbilly music, and ability to sing like Little Jimmy Dickens to Carol Stuart.

I, David Hinshaw, bequeath my wildest "Bronc" to Johnny Hunter, hoping that he can break it.

I, Jerry Maines, leave my interest in girls to George Lee McCoin.

I, Dorothy Transou, will my ability to get to the front of the lunch line before anyone else to Pat Windsor.

I, Betty Lou Spencer, bequeath to Vetreal Hinson my D. O. job.

I, Brady Sloop, bequeath m

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

I, Pat King, bequeath my ability to get along with all the teachers to all the juniors.

I, Betty Caudle, will my four years in high school to all the eighth graders.

I, Lucy Luffman, bequeath my Luffman talent for poetry to Dicky Minish.

I, David Jordan, leave my long, wavy locks to "Boodie" Harris and Faye Payne.

I, R. C. Osborne, bequeath my scintillating personality and gift of "gab" to Louis Neaves.

I, Bobby Nance, bequeath my luck in getting excused absences to Howard Hayes.

We, Frances Osborne and Gwyndolyn Walker, leave our extra pounds to Eldon Parks.

I, Ima Jackson, bequeath my admiration for the underclass boys to Donna Ray and Twinkle Jackson, as I'll be looking for someone older and more serious after graduation.

I, Frances Burcham, bequeath my Glee Club music to anyone willing to sing.

I, Bonnie Jane Hall, will my musical talent to Jane Boyles.

I, Phyllis Jennings, bequeath my majorette strut to Betty Ellen Harris.

I, A. C. Cockerham, bequeath my place as a band officer every year to Bonnie Bowman.

I, Bobby Eidson, leave my yellow pants to anyone who can and will wear them.

I, John Simmons, bequeath my love for "Jean" to Henry Clay Walters.

I, Polly Chipman, bequeath my seat in journalism to Vetreal Hinson, providing she takes it next year.

I, Mary Ann Harmon, bequeath my pieces of angel food cake to anyone who likes it.

I, Carolyn Freeman, will my desire to become a professional dancer to Dixie Ann Graham.

I, Jerry Lou Haynes, bequeath my membership in the Quill and Scroll to Dicky Minish.

I, Marie Gaither, bequeath my quietness in class to John Henry Steele.

I, Della Myers, leave my position on the annual staff to the one who has the luck to obtain it.

I, Charles Fletcher, bequeath the place Betty Ellen and I use at lunch hour to John Henry Steele and Frances Russell.

I, Tommy James, will my sparkling, clean game pants to "Punchy" Shore.

I, Lorene Carter, bequeath my laugh to the person who thinks that he can imitate it.

We, Betty Ann DeBorde and Polly Bivins, leave our stencils, styli, mimeoscopes, and mimeographs to whoever thinks he has two hours a day to spend working on Elk Antler art.

We, the seniors of 1951, bequeath to the juniors, sophomores, freshmen, and eighth graders the right to advance one step farther on the road of life's achievement. Take a firm footing so that there need never be an occasion to fall or slide back.

We, the seniors of 1951, bequeath to the faculty, with special consideration to those who have taught us for four years, our everlasting appreciation and tribute for the work given to molding citizens of tomorrow. We can never repay the patience and understanding we have received, but can only express our appreciation and go out on life's highway a little better for having received it.

Polly Ann Bivins, Testator
